I am glad to share that I have completed a mind-blowing analysis on 'Mental Health Survey' using the Survey Dataset of KH, which includes real time survey responses from participants using Excel

Through this interesting journey, I was able to develop critical thinking and problem-solving skills, which helped me identify key trends and patterns using visuals and reports. As a result, I have gained valuable insights, and here are some of the things that I learned:

1.   Improving questioning techniques to elicit more valuable information.

2.   Adopting a proactive mindset like that of a business owner.

3.   Selecting and producing appropriate visuals for effective communication.

4.   Delivering insights effectively to relevant stakeholders.

 Feedback and suggestions are appreciated.
